

specimens which have been and are in the possession of the Zoological Society, and other proprietors. It was apparently used in the past. Certain Carthaginian coins are stamped with a figure of the African Elephant; "but in Africa no attempts are now made to utilise this creature except for food and ivory.

FIG. 117.—African Elephant, Elephas africanus. $\times \frac{1}{2}$. (After Sir Samuel Baker.)

The meaning of an Elephant as an emblem, upon a coin > to be eternity, and there is no question but that the